THE SOCIAL EFFECT OF EDUCATION

BY PROF. O. E. ADAMS.

Mankind, at birth, is thrown into a world of care, possible. With his life is a struggle from the cradle to the grave. The period of infancy is prolonged. Not so with the lower animals which are prepared at infancy to enter the struggle for existence for themselves. The human infant is the most helpless of all beings; yet capable of the highest attainments.

Our environment is a complex one. An individual must go through the same stages of development as the race. The race has gone through the period of infancy, childhood, and maturity. In this stage of maturity with all that the race has achieved, the individual finds himself to-day. This achievement of the race is the environment of the pupil of to-day. The educated man reproduces the racial heritage.

There are three effects upon the members of society of reproducing this racial heritage, that is, of educating them. It conserves the achievements of the race in the past; it preserves that which the race achieves to-day; and it works possible future progress.

The educated man takes up the work where the race before him has left it. He bears forward the burden of progress which his predecessors have laid down with their lives. The growth of civilization is like the upward mounting of the coral reef in the mid-let of the sea—each individual rises upon the shoulders of his predecessors.

The reproduction of what the race has left us preserves the present. It protects the present. It does this by developing self-control in the individual members of society and by binding them to the institutions of law, and order. He who knows himself to be in possession of this priceless heritage, of the race feels him-self committed to its keeping.

Best of all, it makes possible future progress. This education does, by giving to society its scholars—men who are leaders. Progress is, simply, the addition of present to social achievement. If nothing is achieved, nothing is added; and we have done nothing for civilization.

Then, the pupils of Malver High School, put yourselves in possession of that which the race has bequeathed down to you, or in other words educate yourselves. Make the most of your time. Try to add something to human knowledge, the treasure house of the world. Then life will not have been lived in vain.

Graham E. Murry who has been holding the office of captain of the M. H. S. Base-ball Team, resigned recently. Unless another pupil takes up the work, the organization will be discontinued.

We are very sorry of his taking this step, for he has made an excellent captain and is a good player.

The team could not accomplish much without his aid.

A mistake was made as to the Honor Roll for the Seventh Grade. Miss Eva Black was not entitled to a place but Mand Clark, and Vain Means should have been named.

When we printed the last issue Mr. Adam's "Bible Class" had decreased so greatly that we did not make any mention of it. But it has started up again with a larger membership than ever.

The following is an Arithmetic problem which the teacher of Grade Nine was compelled to explain frequently to a certain pupil of that grade.

$$1 \times 1 = 1; \sqrt{1} = 1; (1 \times 1 \times 1 \times 1 \times 1) = 1 \\ 1 - 1 = 0$$ we hope she understands these truths now.

The beginning of the end is fast approaching, for this is the last part of the Seventh Month.

If some people would think twice before they speak, they would resemble a class most of the time.

When you want to kick; find something to kick at besides the air.

A man lives by believing something; not by believing about many things.

The proprietors of the RECORD have decided to increase the size of the last issue of the season to 32 pages. This number will be neatly printed in one eighth School Colors and will be very attractive. Don't miss subscribing and getting this booklet.

When you have criticisms to make, just chew them up and swallow them; they may do you good.

When Little Johnnie X —, was asked if he was able to compose poetry he produced the following:

When the trees are green it is Spring,

When your teacher says "Sing," you sing;

When the night begins, the dew falls in beads,

When the teacher says "Read," why he reads;

All the boys and girls too, see how much they can do.

And when teacher says, "Sit!" they skidoo.

The pupils of the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, grades met Monday after school to organize a literary society. Debates, recitations, etc. will constitute a part of the work for which the society was organized. Messrs. Sam Russell and Marjorie Sumpter and Messrs. Graham Merry, and Rob't Freeland were appointed as a committee for framing a constitution. This promises to be one of the most beneficial institutions of the school, and it has our most hearty congratulations and best wishes for success.

The colors, "Green and Greener," were suggested for consideration to the Tenth Grade. We have never been able to learn whether or not these colors were chosen; but we feel safe in saying, they were not.

Miss Carrie Hess had a sudden attack of indisposition on 'show day' and went home. She was in perfect health next morning.

Pete Keith narrowly escaped being murdered by a hat-pin, & cadney, at the meeting of the Literary Society. Mr. Keith is a very sober and good looking young gentleman, and would have been greatly lamented if he had been the victim of this awful tragedy.

AT SCHOOL AWAY FROM HOME.

BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

Our dreams had hardly started to get interesting when we were disturbed by a bugle's bugle summoning us to get up and answer a roll call.

We then had to make up our beds, and sweep out our rooms. There was then another bugle call for breakfast. We all went into the dining room expecting a change in the bill of fare; but the only change was we had biscuits, coffee, beans and potatoes in different courses.

We went out of the dining room, into the school room to spend another day of misery and torment. An old man read something out of the Bible and then called the roll, to which the boys answered "Here."

That afternoon after school hours there was snow on the ground and the "Boarding Boys" and the town boys had a big battle in which the town boys were victorious. We then had supper which consisted of more "Hard Tack," potatoes, coffee and beans. We then went over the same old road of two hours in "Study Hall," then to bed to continue our dreams of the night before. [To continue]

CLIPPINGS

As he steadily climbed the steps at 2 a. m., his wife met him.

She—"Where have you been?"

He—"Out enjoying the beautiful moonshine."

She—"I thought I smelled it."

A teacher trying to draw out the powers of a class in Arithmetic, enquired, "Tommy, if you gave your little brother six sticks of candy and then took away five, what would that make?" And Tommy, thinking of little Joe, said, "That would make him yell."

Jack was caught throwing stones at another boy and when his mother asked, "When that boy threw a stone at you, why didn't you come to me?" Jack replied, "Cause I can throw stones straighter'n you, mother."

The subscriptions for the RECORD the first issue were only 30 and at the present date we have nearly 75. This shows a fair increase and also that every body's waking up.

If we continue this enterprise next term, which we sincerely trust we may, we only hope the patrons, pupils, and teachers will aid us as they have in this, our humble beginning.

STATE COUNTIES: 5.

The State Oratorical & Musical Contest, which has just closed has not been without its lessons.

To the schools represented, it has been a stimulus to a higher and better preparation.

Through the kindness of the Board of Education our three contestants, E. W. Fowland, Kathleen Clem, and Nat Hunicutt, were not left alone to struggle for the honors to be dispensed. Nearly all the faculty and a large delegation of M. H. S. pupils reached Little Rock in time to hear their representations and it is the verdict of all that Kathleen Clem and E. W. Fowland acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner. Nat Hunicutt by his talent and ready, warlike practice won second prize; the boy who received first prize only beating him one point.

Next year the representatives will begin earlier in their practice and be better prepared for battle.

Nat Hunicutt was met at the depot by a crowd of M. H. S. pupils, in spite of the bad weather. They yelled themselves hoarse. Let me say in part for the effort, in that, they out did the county students in this respect.

Little puffs of powder,
Little dabs of paint,
Makes a Hot Springs School Girl,
Look like what she ain't.

Sometimes a little sunshine,
Sometimes a little gloom,
Sometimes its a feather-duster,
But most always its a broom.

Girls are not like apples,
Nor any other fruit between
The earth and sky, because they Are sweetest when they're green.

Miss Hazel Tomlinson, who has attended the M. H. S. for a number of terms, has withdrawn for the good. Her eyes have been troubling her for the last few months continually, and have gotten so much worse, she thought the wisest course was to withdraw and endeavor to recuperate. She is missed greatly, and we hope her eyes will improve soon.

The base ball game of the M. H. S. Friday April the Third was contested closely, the score being 12 to 15 in favor of the city team. The M. H. S. fought hard and long for supremacy as this will probably be the last game they will play.

Lewis Cooper, of Bliss Military Academy played with the town boys.

Samuel Birkhead, a star player of Malvern, was disabled by a knock on the knee during the game.

The Ninth Grade was greatly surprised when Miss Lothe Seamly missed translating a Caesar selection.

The majority of the teachers, being desirous of attending the Oratorical Contests, school was suspended on April 3rd. The pupils no doubt wish something on this order would happen frequently, and be of long duration.
