Biographical information
Compiled by Beverly Crawford.

The donor of the collection, Florence Eloise Holmes Ryan (1913-2005), was the daughter of Augusta Winfield Malone (1874-1967) and John Gardner Holmes (1875-1955). Florence was born and raised in Trezevant, Carroll County, Tennessee, where her father practiced dentistry. She attended Tennessee College in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, and was a high school teacher and librarian in Haywood County in the late 1930s and early 1940s. She worked for the Proctor and Gamble Defense Corporation plant in Milan, Tennessee, during the war. Florence married John Erle Ryan (1913-2008) in 1947 in Williamson County, Tennessee. John Ryan was raised and worked in the Trezevant area until he moved to Memphis in 1940 to begin working in the insurance industry. John and Florence had two children: Gay Ryan Bradshaw and John Holmes Ryan. Florence was a member of the Poetry Society of Tennessee. She won an award for one of her poems from the Jackson Writers Group.

Augusta “Gussie” Winfield Malone was born on September 26, 1874, in Hickory Plain, Arkansas, one of six children of Benjamin Hicks Malone (born 1833) and Nannie Leonora Stephens (1842-1891). Her siblings included: Rebecca Elsie (born 1859 in Savannah, Tenn.; married Levi McCollum in 1885), Harry Stephens (born 1863), Juliette Irwin (born 1865), Robert N. (born 1868), Nannie Leonora (born 1870), and Benjamin Hicks (born 1872). She was living in Waverly, Humphreys County, Tennessee, by 1880. In 1893 she was a student at Potter College for Young Ladies in Bowling Green, Kentucky, and her home is listed as Bald Knob, Arkansas, but she also is recorded as attending Waverly College that year, where her sister Elsie and brother Harry taught, and graduated from Waverly in 1894. In 1896 she was teaching elocution at Arkansas College, Batesville, Arkansas, and later at Marion Female Seminary in Marion, Alabama. According to an article written by Florence Holmes Ryan for the book The History of Carroll County, Tennessee, Augusta was a speech teacher in Carroll County when she met her future husband John Gardner Holmes who was serving as a substitute teacher. They married in 1901. Subsequently, John attended Vanderbilt University and Augusta taught at St. Cecilia Academy in Nashville. According to Florence, Augusta had also taught at Edward McGehee College in Woodville, Mississippi, and McFerrin College in Martin, Tennessee. After John obtained his dentistry degree from Vanderbilt in 1906, the couple returned to Trezevant where Augusta taught at Trezevant High School. After John's death in 1955, Augusta went to live with John and Florence Ryan in Memphis where she died in 1967.

Augusta's father, Benjamin Hicks Malone was born in Athens, Alabama, in 1833. He received an A.M. degree from Florence Wesleyan University in Florence, Alabama in 1859. Benjamin was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church South as well as an educator. By 1860 he was living in Purdy, McNairy County, Tennessee, and was a professor of ancient languages at Purdy College. In 1867 he was the president of the Pebble Hill Academy attached to the Savannah Station Quarterly Conference. By 1868, he was the president of Hanner Highland College near McMinnville, Tennessee. In 1873 he was transferred to the Little Rock Conference of the M.E. Church South. In the mid-1870s he was the principal of a school in Old Lewisburg near Morrilton, Arkansas. By 1880 he was living in Waverly, Humphreys County, Tennessee, and may have taught at Waverly College. By the mid-1880s he was the president of Ashland Institute in Ashland City, Tennessee, and then became the first president of Bolton College in Arlington, Shelby County, Tennessee, around 1889. At some point the family moved back to Arkansas where his wife Nannie died in Clarendon in 1891. In 1910, Benjamin is recorded in Webster County, Mississippi, as a 76-year-old teacher in a public school.
