Nineteenth century photograph collection

Title: Nineteenth century photograph collection

Collection No: MSS.457

Extent: 3 cubic feet

Inclusive Dates: 1860-1896 and undated

Abstract: The collection contains a variety of images and formats representing photography in the nineteenth century, both as individual images and collected in albums, including Civil War servicemen.

Processed by: Gerald Chaudron, 2015-2018.

Access: Open to all researchers.

Language: English

Preferred Citation: Nineteenth century photograph collection, Special Collections Department, University Libraries, University of Memphis.

Publication date: October 2018

Scope and contents

The collection is an artificial one containing a variety of photographic images, both individual and in albums. Their provenance is known in some cases but not all. The formats include ambrotypes, cartes de visite, tintypes and cabinet cards. Many of the individual images are not identified, while some of the owners of the albums are unknown. One album of interest contains 76 images of delegates to the 1870 Tennessee Constitutional Convention with their autographs. Another includes Civil War images of Union military leaders and officers of the Mississippi River Squadron and the U.S.S. Minnesota. Another album features a collection of images of actors and singers from the United States and Europe.
