Biographical Information

Laurence Bridges Gardiner was born July 21, 1906, in Memphis, Tennessee. Gardiner was the longest-serving member of the Mid-South Fair board, cattle expert, genealogist, philanthropist, and civic leader. From the time he was a teenager, the born-and-bred city boy was interested in agriculture, particularly dairy cattle. He spent several years as a field man for the American Jersey Club before starting his highly successful cattle-breeding business, Pure Bred Jersey Sales Nationwide, from which he retired.

Gardiner was also known as an expert genealogist and was a member of the Tennessee Genealogical Society, the Downtown Kiwanis Club, and a former director of the American Jersey Cattle Club. A graduate of the University of Tennessee (UT), Knoxville, Gardiner was a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, the UT Development Council, the UT Benefactors Society, the Memphis Chancellor's Roundtable, and the UT President's Club. He served as president of the Elmwood Cemetery Association and was elected its first president emeritus.
